Guidance received by the Department of Education that students should have “exceptional need” when considering students for funding with priority given to those students. Those students with Federal Pell Grants have exceptional need. The university established a tiered awarding approach to awarding eligible students based on the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) and the resulting Expected Family Contribution (EFC). Amounts awarded were based on the calculated EFC. Ranges varied depending on EFC and time of awarding. $2,000 for highest need students to a minimum amount from $200 for those deemed to have financial need or otherwise eligible for funding. If students needed additional assistance for hardships related to the COVID -19 pandemic additional funds were considered. Amount was further determined based on enrollment as a full-time student, part time student or graduate/doctoral student. The amounts may vary as students request further assistance.

Requirement: Any instructions, directions, or guidance provided by the institution to students concerning the Emergency Financial Aid Grants.

Delaware Valley University emailed all eligible students with instructions to receive the ARP HEERF III funding.

Students could choose on a form whether to apply to their outstanding balance with the university or have the grants refunded to them to meet their educational or living expenses related to the COVID disruptions to their education. If students chose to apply to their outstanding balance the funds were credited by the Office of the Bursar to the student account. If the student chose refund the refund was processed and sent to the student. A timeline for refunds and instructions were presented to the student.

Additional outreach will occur for awarding funding based on needs of the student population or special circumstances for which ARP HEERF III grants will be awarded. At this point in time there is no cap in awarding as the university wishes to help as many students as possible based on needs.
